Call for Nominations: 2013 Awards and Scholarships

Each year, the ASA, CSSA, and SSSA Awards Program honors outstanding individuals from around the world while our student scholarships and fellowships provide a glimpse into the future of the profession. Recognize the achievements of your peers and students by participating in our Awards Program for 2013.

ASA, CSSA, and SSSA annually recognize individuals for dozens of our awards, scholarships, and fellowships for achievements in a variety of disciplines at all levels of the profession—undergraduate and graduate students, post-docs, and those in their early, mid-, and late career. For this year, many honorariums for scholarships and awards funded through the Agronomic Science Foundation have increased.

We are currently accepting nominations (self-nominations encouraged) for six undergraduate scholarships; five graduate fellowships; 14 ASA awards; 10 CSSA awards; 12 SSSA awards; one ASA, CSSA, and SSSA Award; and our most prestigious recognition—ASA, CSSA, and SSSA Fellow.

New this year is the Mentoring Award from the Women in Agronomy, Crops, Soils, and Environmental Sciences Committee that recognizes an individual whose efforts have encouraged women and/or girls in the sciences and features a $1,500 honorarium.

Please note that committee members for each award may not be nominated, nominate, or write a reference letter for the award for which their committee is responsible, but they can participate in all other awards. Members of the ASA, CSSA, and SSSA boards of directors and executive committees each have a separate policy regarding their eligibilities to participate, so please view this policy on the awards sites (below).

Also new this year is our redesigned awards website, which facilitates nominations and reference letters and now features a single sign-on that matches your Society log-in information.
