Correction

In the February 2013 issue of CSA News magazine, in the Theses and Dissertations special section, we inadvertently omitted C. A. Jones and P. R. Miller as advisers for Ann McCauley who received a Master of Science (MS) degree from Montana State University. We also would like to correct the listing for Themis M. Stone who received a MS degree from the University of Tennessee-Knoxville in December of 2011. The advisers for Mr. Stone were Major Professor A.M. Johnson and Committee Members M. Radosevich, J.M. DeBruyn, and F. Walker. The thesis title was “Effect of Landscape Position and Dairy Manure Addition on Bioavailable Forms of Soil Phosphorus Using Enzyme Hydrolysis.” We regret these omissions and errors and again congratulate all of these graduates.
