Congratulations to the students who are recipients of the 2014 Gerald O. Mott Meritorious Graduate Student Award in Crop Science. This annual award recognizes top-notch graduate students pursuing advanced degrees in crop science disciplines. Departments select students based on academic achievements, research and teaching contributions, leadership accomplishments, service activities, and personal qualifications.

The award is named for the first CSSA President Gerald O. Mott who trained 75 graduate students during his 45-year career at Purdue University and the University of Florida. Many of his students have become eminent forage scientists in the United States and Latin America. The award is offered by CSSA.

Teresa B. De Leon
Louisiana State University

Steven Hystad
Montana State University

Emad Jahanzad
University of Massachusetts–Amherst

Jennifer Ann Kimball
North Carolina State University

Alexander Lindsey
The Ohio State University

Navreet K Mahal
California State University–Fresno

Adam Lyle Mahan
Texas A&M University

Maria Betsabe Mantilla
Iowa State University

David A. Marburger
University of Wisconsin

Eric Miller
Oklahoma State University

Grace L. Miner
Colorado State University

Jesse J. Morrison
Mississippi State University

Kimberly Mullenix
University of Florida

Ethan Parker
Auburn University

Sarah M. Potts
University of Illinois Urbana-Champaign

Brianna L. Randow
Oregon State University

Tyson B. Raper
University of Arkansas

Rima Thapa
Purdue University

Published April 29, 2014