cut Department of Environmental Protection. The conference was well attended, very well received, and an unqualified success.

Copies of the proceedings (70 pages) are available for $10.00 each, prepaid. Included are extended abstracts of the conference’s 21 presentations. William R. Wright is the editor. Send requests and make checks payable to: SSSSNE, P.O. Box 258, Storrs, CT 06268. For information call Edward Saut­ter at (203) 429-3902.

Thank You Sherri Mickelson

Thanks Sherri. Thank you for training editors and associate editors. Thank you for quality control. Thank you for ensuring that deadlines were met. Thank you for good judgement and being fair. Thank you for being friendly on the telephone, your wit, and always, good humor. Thank you for 7.5 years and 31 issues as managing editor of Soil Survey Horizons and an additional 4.5 years and 18 issues as an assistant editor.

Sherri H. Mickelson is moving on to new duties and responsibilities with the Trisociety headquarters. With publication of Volume 34, issue number 2, Sherri passed the managing editor reins to Jon Bartels.

Jim Brasfield and Jerry Miller, past editors, and Bill Smith, present editor, extend a most gracious “thank you” to you, Sherri, for your patience and diligence in helping ensure that Soil Survey Horizons continued to be a medium concerning the study of soils in the field. Best wishes and continued success!

Gerald A. Miller, former editor
Dep. of Agronomy
Iowa State Univ.
Ames, IA 50011